

Requiem Solution

Kleerup

The message is out, I watched you begin again
Had it all figured out, I see what you've got
From knocking on the wrong door

You put yourself to rest down the river
When you woke up, you were touched by an angel
But there was no one around
You looked down on yourself from a window

So you're down on your knees
Begging for ends to meet
You went up, you went down, all around
But there's nothing to be found

Am I gonna see you next autumn?
I'll be there when you're falling
It's alright, no doubt, somehow
You will find your way

Paying the price based on an ending
See what you've done
You've got nowhere to run
After knocking on Heaven's door

You lay yourself to rest down the river
When you woke up, you were touched by an angel
Nothing left to be found
Nowhere to be safe, you've been here before

So you're down on your knees
Begging for ends to meet
You went up, you went down, all around
But there's nothing to be found

Am I gonna see you next autumn?
I'll be there when you're falling
It's alright, no doubt, somehow
You will find your way
