

Enough for You

Kris Kristofferson

I've lived enough to know that love's not everything you need
God knows I know there are still so many things you wanna be I've seen enough to understand the pain you're goin' through
It's just the shame to know I'm not enough for you
It hurts to see the hurt beneath your laughter and your lies
And try in vain to feel the painful secret locked behind your eyes
And I can't even blame you for the things you're turnin' to
It's just the shame to know I'm not enough for you
I've given you the best of every thing I have to give
Now there's nothing left for me to leave you but my will to live
I hope some day somebody somewhere loves you like I do
It's just the shame to know I'm not enough for you