Starry Night

It is night and life moves at a new pace The air is still, the earth sleeps We move with the grace Of the moon sweeping through the clouds

It is night and life moves at a new pace The air is still, the earth sleeps We move with the grace Of the moon sweeping through the clouds

One by one the stars break through One by one the stars break through One by one the stars break through One by one the stars break through

One by one the stars break through One by one the stars break through One by one the stars