Her Black Eyes

Little Comets

He comes in and prepares to attack her for All the feelings he perceives she's lacking the Floorboards crack with his lack of restraint so Her black eyes they agree with this story say Two black eyes they agree with this story say

Clouds are forming both inside and out as he Arches shoulders and prepares to shout Tears they fall on each side of the pane so Jealous wrists that agree with this story his Poignant fists they agree with this story her Two black eyes they agree with this story say Two black eyes they agree with this story when

Oh all of your Saturdays Could end up in woe You hide behind curtains And fall between floor Just look at what you've become

A victim of his broken love Where tension and silence Converge into violence

A victim of his token love Where tension and silence Converge into violence

She strikes out and prepares now to leave him for All the summers of torment and treason her Hands still shake as she approaches the door Her blue eyes they depart from this story say Two blue eyes play a part in this story say Two black eyes they escape from this story say

A victim of his token love Where tension and silence Converge into violence

A victim of his token love

Oh all of your Saturdays Could end up in woe You hide behind curtains And fall between floor Just look at what you've become
