

Back Of The Pub Quiz

Little Man Tate

Hey, how you do? Do you remember me from school?
I remember you, I remember your name
Is your last one still the same... Oh good
Because, it'll always be you
It'll always, it'll always be you
It'll always, it'll always be you
It'll always, it'll always be you
It'll always be you
How's your Mum? Is she well?
I heard she left your Dad for somebody else
Now he's back on the fags, back on the booze
And it's all down to you, cos you're so into you

Don't wanna be the one to tell you
Don't wanna be the one to let you know
Don't wanna be the one to work out
You're not the girl we talked about

What happened to the words you wrote
On the back of the pub quiz
Under the window?
You said this'd always be home
And you'd never lose touch with the ones you love most

Look what you've become
You've not achieved what you could've done
I remember your laugh, remember your jokes
Never thought you'd be miserable all on your own
Cos you're so into you

So into you, so into you
So into you, so into you
So into you, so into you
So you packed it in and ran away
Now you're right back here, starting again
If they knew the truth, you'd never've be used
Cos you're so into you
Yeah you're so into you

Don't wanna be the one to tell you
Don't wanna be the one to let you know
Don't wanna be the one to work out
You're not the girl we talked about

What happened to the words you wrote
On the back of the pub quiz
Under the window?
You said this'd always be home
And you'd never lose touch with the ones you love most
What happened to the words you wrote
On the back of the pub quiz
Under the window?
You said this'd always be home
And you'd never lose touch with the ones you love most
What happened to the words you wrote
On the back of the pub quiz
Under the window?

You said this'd always be home
And you'd never lose touch with the ones you love most