

Carry On Screaming (ruins)

London After Midnight

I've knelt at your altar I've cut out my heart I've lived in your Ruins my pain is your art

my wrists are bound tight so as not to bleed my eyes were so dark so as not to see the memories of the past are fading like a bad dream

I've never been so alone than with you, I've never been scared to dream until now,
I can't close my eyes, I'll carry on, screaming your words are like ice, they melt in the heat the cold and the pain which you seem to breed have become what you are and left your ruins empty...