How do you feel when you lie?
Straight faced while people cry
How do you feel when you promise something
That you know you'll never do
Giving false hope to the people
Giving false hope to the underpriviledged
Do you really sleep at night?
When you know you're living a lie
To you it is just a job
To the people it hurts to the bone

Ooh political games that they play (4x)

What do you say to the orphans?

Of the women and men you sent to war

What do you say to the widows?

Of the men you sent to war

Telling them it is good for the country

When you know it's good for your ego

What a shame.

Do you really sleep at night?

When you know you're living a lie

You talking tough, you talking sincerely

Giving false hope to the infected

Giving false hope to the affected.

To you it is just a job

Ooh political games that they play

To the people it hurts to the bone.
