

Heroine

Madina Lake

You sacrificed it all.
For a little taste of fame.
The spotlight fills you up.
Like a black tar heroine.

Under the burning lights.
Crystal lenses to fades away.
Back in your real life again.
When it's cold, you're alone.

When they take it all, take it all away.
(they better take me too)
Because I can't fall, I won't fall again.
(I'd fight forever just to be remembered by you)
And I fight forever to be remembered by you.

Once you've had it all, you can forget who you are.
When your reality surpasses all your wildest dreams.
You've got nothing else but to be just yourself.
And you got nothing left what to be, just yourself on your own.

When they take it all, take it all away.
Because I won't fall, I won't fall again.
And I fight forever to be remembered by you.

Like a black tar heroine.
....the pain.
When you forget what goes down will always raise again.
When you find your heroine.
She will take you in.
And then you know it's never over if you never surrender.

When they take it all, take it all away.
Because I won't fall, I won't fall again.
And I fight forever to be remembered by you.
By you.
