Man Overboard

Sooner the sheets, sooner his guard will grow weak. Fall to the floor, hoping you've heard this before. I came up empty with nothing left to show, Sitting here on main street, trying to find my way back home.

Now I'm feeling like I owe you one.

You suddenly aren't there. Still don't understand why. Guess I'll have to one year. We just need some more time. Not ready for goodbye But I knew it was coming. Felt it deep inside me. I can hear you whisper. Will you be by my side, not ready for goodbye.

I came up empty with nothing left to show, Sitting here on main street, trying to find my way back home. With the effort and all the things I know, I'm sitting here on main street, trying to find my way back hom e.

And I'm feeling like I owe you one.
