Like a vampire, living beneath the stars I feel burned by the sun
Alive for a single purpose, to bring back the rulers to bring back the one
Finally, I found my call, my self has returned I'm free, I am strong
And will my faith restored in an entiny I'll see the World undone

Open your eyes to see the truth. Oh, if only you knew.

If you could just see - if you could just hear their voices You would follow us to the end of the World, and find eternal l ife.

Clearly I am not mas as I thought no one's controlling my mind
I feel inspired yes, but make the calls reality's for the blind
Would you really want to wage a war on a foe such as this full of might, full of death
I reccomend you to think again to become one of us and to bow in awe

Open your eyes to see the truth. Oh, if only you knew.

If you could just see - if you could just hear their chanting You would follow us to the end of immortality in eternal times

I would sacrifice my disbelief in you. Oh, if you open your eyes to see the truth

If you could just see - if you could just hear their voices You would follow us to the end of the World, and find eternal life.

If you could just see - if you could just hear their commands You would follow us to be swept away by madness in it's purity

Purity!
