Marilyn Manson

Her heart shivers in my hand she's melting on me like cotton candy I make the faces that make you cry I want you more when you're afraid of my disease, disease is draining me anymore you're not so "pretty please" disease, disease is draining me I want you more when you're afraid of me I will break you inside out you are mine, you are mine I will break you inside out you are mine, you are mine her hair hangs in swollen strings I'm choking on her, it feels so sickening I make the faces that make you cry I want you more when you're afraid of my disease, disease is draining me anymore you're not so pretty, please disease, disease is draining me i want you more when you're afraid of me i will break you inside out you are mine, you are mine