

Symbolistic White Walls

Matthew Good Band

I'm tired of blood and over priced bubble gum, mom nobody wake up there's nothing you could have done wrong I'm wearing the same grin, I take it all on the chin I still believe everything that I read and sometimes it's hard, sometimes it's harder sometimes it's on sale, sometimes it never fails I have a psychic and she says I'm lonely she says my destiny is turning out all wrong so now I just sit here and think of meaningful things to say

surround me and you every single day
I am cheap and see through

I'm tired of blood and over priced bubble gum nobody moves and nobody gets hurt for very long I'm wearing the same skin, I take it all on the chin I still believe everything that I hear and sometimes it's easy, sometimes it's easier and sometimes it's all free I have a psychic and she says I'm lonely she says inside of me is turning out all wrong
so now I just sit here
and think of meaningless things to say

It's all right now take the world and make it yours again
