Jane, I Still Feel The Same

Matthew Ryan

You wore my shirt
Beside the ocean
Your eyes were serious
The air was blue
And I've relived
That simple notion
When you're young
Does it make it any less true?

Cause, Jane, I still feel the same
You were a good thing
You were a good thing
In a world gone wrong

All the cars on the boulevard
I watch their tail lights disappear
And all the days that I've been sleeping through Awake to remind me
that you're still... not... here
And you'll never be again
You were a good thing
You were a good thing
In a world gone wrong

It's been 4 years
It feels like a hundred
Another world
A lifetime ago
I'm living on Jupiter
I couldn't feel stupider
But I know,
What I know

Jane, I still feel the same
You were a good thing
You were a good thing
In a world gone wrong
