

Live And Learn

Men Without Hats

I would walk the plank, swallow fire, rule the waves. I'd tangle line.
I would shoot the moon, kiss the sky, dam the cost, I'd pay the price.
I would walk the plank, swallow pride, reap the wind, I'd turn the tide.
I would shoot the moon, build a funeral pyre, break my heart in two, burn it with desire to write the book to find a cure to sing the song that saved the world

To learn to live at every turn when you live and learn live and learn, live and learn, live and learn
When you live learning to give all your love in return
When you live, live and learn

I would walk the plank, roll the dice, spin the wheel,
I'd sacrifice everything I am and all that I could do
And I'd do anything, I'd shoot the moon
To write the book to find a way to sing the song that saved the day

To learn to live at every turn when you live and learn live and learn, when you live and learn, live and learn
When you live learning to give all your love in return
When you live, live and learn

Live, live and learn, When you live and learn, Live and learn,
When you live learning to give all your love in return
When you live, live and learn,
Live and learn
