

it's the end of the morning what have i done?
it's finally getting warmer oh God what have i done? prayers for your soul while hoping mine would leave this awful place sometime somewhere better with no more pain you won't love him you'll love me again i was the one the one who was always here fate seeks my soul and it's drawing near i'd die today if you could forgive me, dear i said that anything mattered... words i'd sing you a song i'd love you if i knew how it's too late to hold or kiss you now He wont remember were made perfect somehow "this morning is different" ... words i look down she's asleep in a place she can smile again the world will forget her as she disappears to them i swore i'd love her i'd rather pretend "all these tears are for you" ... words with poison within me and everything still i know now what i have to do (what i never will) i will lift up my eyes to the hills promises, promises, promises ... words