

A Little Stronger Everyday

Michael W. Smith

I was throwin' away what I needed most
It was the Father, Son and the Holy Ghost
A little carnal knowledge is a dangerous thing
It'll eat a hole in the brain
I'd be the biggest fool in the whole universe
To trade a heavenly blessing for a worldly curse
I was a weaker man 'til I made my stand
Now I am here to make a change

I'm running blind on the wheels of faith
(I'm) moving to the beat of a heart that prays
(And) hangin' on every word you said
I get a little stronger every day

Ain't gonna find any help on the T.V.
Or written down on the pages of People Magazine
It takes digging a little deeper into the Good Book now
For a little sacred advice...oh yah

I'm running blind on the wheels of faith
(I'm) moving to the beat of a heart that prays
(And) hangin' on every word you said
I get a little stronger every day

Gettin' strong, a stronger now, every day
Gettin' strong, a stronger now, every day
I'm getting stronger

I'm running blind on the wheels of faith
(I'm) moving to the beat of a heart that prays
(And) hangin' on every word you said
I get a little stronger every day
