

The One That Really Matters

Michael W. Smith

I feel You so close to me
I can hardly move or breathe
I can feel Your presence all around
I fall knees down to the ground

You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters

I know that I have been found
The cares of life can't hold me down
'Cause You're the one I want to please
What matters now is what You think

You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters

I know that I have been found
The cares of life can't hold me down
'Cause You're the one I want to please
What matters now is what You think

You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
(2x)

And I can't help but scream about the way that You moved in Chaotic love has messed me up so I could live again
(2x)

You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
(2x)
