Diving in the Deep End

Natalie Imbruglia

Why should it be someone like me could make the same mistakes again haven't I learned people get hurt when they go diving in the deep end in the deep end in the deep end in the deep end thought I was smart controlling the art, of turning of my intuition haven't I seen since I was fourteen that life is all just repetition you lose or you win you sink or you swim when you go diving in the deep end in the deep end in the deep end in the deep end

now it's time to realise you don't have to agonize you don't have to compromise but the one thing you must do is open your eyes open your eyes

why should it be someone like me could make the same mistakes again haven't I learned people get hurt when they go diving in the deep end in the deep end in the deep end in the deep end