

The Arsonist

New Years Day

Embers that have drifted away
Long lost memories are fading Ashes cover lonely graves
where you left me to die

How does it feel to take a life away?
You turned your back on me so easily

You set me on fire, my only home
I let you inside and you watched me burn
you criminal, criminal
It started with a spark, and ended in flames

Nothing here that comforts me where I was so complete

I still can't believe you could mean so much to me
Are you feeling guilty for throwing the match or for spilling the gasoline?
And when the smoke had cleared how quickly you disappeared

You set me on fire, my only home
I let you inside and you watched me burn
you criminal, criminal
It started with a spark, and ended in flames

A tragedy that ends in never speaking your name You're nothing but a ghost to me

Ashes cover lonely graves

You set me on fire, my only home
I let you inside and you watched me burn
you criminal, criminal
It started with a spark, and ended in flames

I let you inside, I let you inside
