

Is it the past that stops me from growing?
A wish to change yesterday though, I know it is future damaging
Slowly recognizing life cannot stay the same
Wish beautiful moments can remain

Pray I don't lose the track that God makes me run
'Cause without you, without light there is no sun
What is it that we have? Still we have not arrived
Still fall apart and still I ask

Will I wonder for the rest of my life?
Will I break free from my imprisoned mind?
But still we're gypsies for the rest of our lives
And will we break free and free your minds?

Got to maintain our peace of mind
What to do is to keep it steady, keep it focused
People come, people go, friends become enemies
Today they love you, tomorrow then they forget

Some may speak out your secret desire
Then at the same time they want to suck your power
Smile at you, give you kisses
At the same time back stab you and give you

Will I wonder for the rest of my life?
Will I break free from my imprisoned mind?
But still we're gypsies for the rest of our lives
And will we break free and free your minds?
Free your mind, free your mind, free

Will you recognize your soul is naked before you?
Will you hide your sin though you know your truth?
Will you drown in your own tears and self-destruct?
Will you break the rules and be concerned? Yes

Will you wonder for the rest of your life?
Will I break free from my imprisoned mind?
But still we're gypsies for the rest of our lives
And will we break free and free your minds?

Tell me baby, would you keep on wondering?
Come on
Brothers, would you keep on wondering?
Africa, would you keep on wondering?
