

I love you when I found you
I loved you like a son
You wrapped your arms around me and the loading had began
And all the years of passion
And what I have become
The only constant through it all is what you had began

At times I feel I've triumphed
Times I know I fell
But even when I've screwed it up
I'd tried to do it well
I guess that I must thank you now
This may be the last time
Whatever life may bring you I pray that you'll be fine

I love you when I found you
I loved you like a son
You wrapped your arms around me and the loading had began
And all the years of passion
And what I have become
The only constant through it all is what you had began
