Slither

Opeth

Summer's gone and love has withered
I believe in nothing yet nothing is what it seems
All is gone and promises slithered
You have me nothing yet nothing is what it seems

Summer is gone

Your eyes gave away all your lies in the end The dawning of a seething design Kept a secret from the light And felt the weight on my shoulders increase

A bleeding heart led my desperation Like a bird on a wire A broken promise of dedication Never ever again
