

Imaginary Monster

Our Last Night

You're so caught up in your own disease
In this imaginary monster that you're too blind to see
All I wanted was to make this right
But It got me nowhere
All you wanted was to put up a fight
I said I can't save it, I don't care

And it feels like
You've lost your soul I can't let go
You know everything that made me whole
And it feels like
You've lost control so please just listen up
You've turned into every thing you're not
Take a step back and see what you've become

Don't you miss how things used to be
When the only thing that mattered was just you and me
You turned your back and you cut me out
It left me broken
You left me jaded and you made it known
You really just don't care

And it feels like
You've lost your soul I can't let go
You know everything that made me whole
And it feels like
You've lost control so please just listen up
You've turned into every thing you're not
Take a step back and see what you've become

I'm afraid that all we had is lost forever
You're not the same
There's no time left to waste so I'm walking away
There's no time left to waste so I'm walking away

And it feels like
You've lost your soul I can't let go
You know everything that made me whole
And it feels like
You've lost control so please just listen up
You've turned into every thing you're not
Take a step back and see what you've become

You make me fucking sick, yeah!
