

Reality Calling

Peter and the Test Tube Babies

I've got this feeling of impending doom, time goes by troubles loom.

Things get worse and never get better, I only get bills I've never had a letter.

Reality calling

I never had a chance to finish my dream, the alarm bell rang it was eight-fifteen.

I never saw the sun today, but I guess it still looks much the same.

You hide behind your TV screen, everyday's another dream.

There's one thing you can't ignore, the world is knocking at your door.
