Journey Agent

Baby my soul tells me you're standing there Desolation is a railroad station 'Round about 2am on a week night When you walk into Desolation like that And suddenly, out of nowhere Comes a warm song you aren't about to forget

This is the first time, though, that I've heard him at an airport I know he moves along the piers He calls himself a Journey Agent, of Ulipia Says his friends the poets and the artists and musicians Are Ulipians too Hey, listen - listen to his tune
