Heartattack In A Layby

Porcupine Tree

```
Feeling for my cell In the light from the dashboard
Hissing from the road The smell of rain in the air con
Maybe check the news Or just put a tape on Lighting up a smoke
I've got this feeling inside me
Don't feel too good
If I close my eyes And fell asleep in this layby
Would it all subside The fever pushing the day by Motor window wind
I could do with some fresh air
Can't breathe too well
(:She waits for me:) (:Home waits for me.:)
I guess I - should go now She's waiting - to make up
To tell me - she's sorry And how much - she missed me
I'm perfect-ly fine but I just need - to lie down
We'll grow old - together
```
