

The Dream

Primus

Those that dream in color
Are the lucky ones they say
For dreams devoid of color
Are black and white and grey
The shadows of a dreary day

When minds are dripping color
And there's liquid on the brain
They laugh to one another
And politely go insane
In the countries of the dream terrain