

Undiscovered Soul

Richie Sambora

She was standing at the station
Small town suitcase in her hand
There were dreams she found inside her
That no one cared to understand

She never talks about her childhood
So much past to leave behind
She's so scared to go but still she says goodbye
When you walk that road, you walk alone

Just an undiscovered soul, in the great unknown
When you only hope, is to find a home
Just an undiscovered soul
In the great unknown, in the great unknown

Born and raised in poverty
Daddy died when he was young
All the fears that raged inside him
His spirit need to overcome

Each day he tears down the reflection
Of who he used to be and with a little luck
He'll rise eventually when you walk that road
When you walk alone

Just an undiscovered soul, in the great unknown
When you only hope, is to find a home
Just an undiscovered soul
In the great unknown, the great unknown

In the search of our salvation, relentlessly we climb
Just looking for a reason, in creation's grand design
If patience is a virtue then let us humbly begin
We'll be here waiting 'til our ship comes sailing in
When you walk that road we walk alone

Just an undiscovered soul, in the great unknown
When you only hope, is to find a home
You're just an undiscovered soul
In the great unknown, the great unknown, the great unknown

Don't want to walk through life

And undiscovered soul, searching for the road
Looking for a home in the great unknown
Don't want to walk through life
An undiscovered soul, searching for a home
Looking for a road, in the great unknown

Don't want to walk through life an undiscovered soul
Patience, virtue, identify, soul
