

In the Name of Love

Rick Astley

I know that love could realign the phases of the moon
Yet it comes and goes like a wave of a stranger
And as we stumble for the truth
We're caught in a web of lies
Is nothin' worth a damn without the danger

We're lost in a world of illusive dreams
Where every story has a desperate ring

We got a right to happiness, in the name of love
And though sometimes we may forget
To give it all we possess
We gotta try for what we get, in the name of love
And without pause or regret, searching only for the best

We could see the light unfold right before our eyes
Blinded by the tears, we get lost in the shadows
Oh! But the heart is a wondrous thing
Surviving the thunder, outlasting the rain

We got a right to happiness, in the name of love
And though sometimes we may forget
To give it all we possess
We gotta try for what we get, in the name of love
And without pause or regret, searching only for the best

Oh! But the heart is a wondrous thing
Surviving the thunder, outlasting the rain

We got a right to happiness, in the name of love
And may be sometimes we may forget
To give it all we possess
We gotta try for what we get, in the name of love

And without pause or regret
Searching only for the best
Try name of love,
Try in the name of love
