Hey you, I've seen you here before
In your eyes, prizmatic sight on and on as I defy Denials, back from the broken glass Sapphire visions and favored derisions with spiders on your min d shaking fists full of string as I

Tie me up in knots while contradictory impulse lusts The dreaming loom is twisted and confused The stories on the spools will weave us back into one

And here we find ourselves again
Tightrope decisions and bloodcolored medicine a million miles from eye-to-eye
It feels much as it did before biting the tails in selfmade betrayals Forever repeating this deceit, so who cares if I...

... while spinning I spun you a web
While spinning I spun you,
Stammering words in a daze, seemingly starryeyed followers mumbling praise
And all of the world is a stage, fleetingly these marionettes d ance straight to their graves
With every desire on a string the future hangs perilously
It's the start of the tie that will bind and the last fraying s trand

Spinning on the dreaming loom a web of lies and tangled truths With every knot that comes undone, we weave ourselves back into one