

It's all on you

Robert Pattinson

And their eyes were on a double string and their hands lay softly on the street now.
And I do believe honestly that I know this is where I want to be now.

There are pictures in their eyes, they're a thread
up for the skies.
So I wait.

Now with our souls misunderstood and our minds they saw a map of a way.

For how long?
For how long, how long must you take?
I was set for that mistake but you moved.
And when there was nothing then that I couldn't take,
it's all on you, darlin'
You took me when my eyes were turned.

It's all on you, baby.
You turned your back when I tried to learn.

Still I cannot lift my eyes
if you hands are turning mine
But you dared not
What you said our souls could contain
They could contain.

But now I'm gone
with a broken twisted soul in mind.
But for how long?
Because I've wasted this train of youth, all on you.
It's all on you, it's all on you,

All on you, all on you,
all on you.

All on you.

Yeah, yeah, yeah.
