The Temple In The Underworld

Root

I rush through purple mist Fury in my eyes / Beast of prey's look I make my way through shrubs of Skeletons My target is just round the corner. I weep blood instead of tears Dust of Eternity covers my face Windstorm howled its Song of Death Cacophony Demons turned into everything Am I dreaming - or awake? The Temple is facing me From the Depths of Infinity it grows This structure of both Life and Death You can never name it Has been towering here for ages and forever From mysterious Symbols on the walls Sap Shemhamforash leaks down At Last I recognize what I always wanted And I see there is no return no I become a little Part of the Sign on the wall And dwindle in the Underworld Temple.