For The World

Shai Hulud

Poured myself out: I am the empty cup My hope has died away And my tolerance faded.

How can I keep Stability
On such shaky ground?
Prayers that a smile will flag me down.

Sadly I've learned there's no truth in comfort; Well-being stems not from love.

Anguish proves to be my only means of solace,

Yet I want to be held by anyone,

With any arms

I spend another morn alone
In a world that rejects me.
A public unkind, laced with apathy.
This one's for the world: I hate you.

Life could get no colder; I'm living out a dying cell, But I can pull through.