Ordinary Morning

I left a man Asleep in the nude My name is my pocket With lipstick and rouge Everything I ever wanted, What a lovely pie you baked, Is anybody listening/ Don't the painted birds ever fly away

It's just an ordinary morning It's just an ordinary day And I'm just an ordinary woman Slipping away

The walls have been talking About me again I'm good for a joke, but when I awoke The dream didn't end Now everytime I turn around I'm only sleeping, John, is anybody out there? Don't the wounded birds still sing?

It's just an ordinary morning It's just an ordinary day And I'm just an ordinary woman Slipping away
