

How To Start A War

Simon Curtis

I thought we were meant to be Thought it'd be you and me
Standing together at the end of the world
I guess that's not what you want
Guess that I should just move on
But tell me how am I to move when I can't even breathe?

This not how you make love
This is not what we signed up for
This is not how it's meant to be
This is how you start a war

You thought I'd abandoned you
Thought that I'd stranded you
But I was right there holding your hand
But I guess you didn't see
Everything that I thought we would be
I guess I never thought that you would ever leave me here all a lone

Bombs are falling
While we're stalling
I'm still trying
Why are we fighting?
Words destroyed us
Played and toyed us
I still love you
Don't you love me too?