

A Heart The Size Of A Horse

The Black Heart Procession

lights down everything's closed I sit outside in the rain that pins me here you were in the trinity of my beating heart I should have known when my heart fell from the horse to something less than me
you were in the trinity of my beating heart from all the rain the vines have grown over and trap me here inside my home there's a fence that's tired and old escape the grove you were the trinity of my beating heart
I should have known when my heart fell from the horse
to something less than me
you were in the trinity of my beating heart