In the Afternoon

The Cardigans

Winter came by my bedroom today Falling in rows and covering the lane Morning shone on my windows today Passing the time I slumber away To kill all the day

Stumbling up at once And put the kettle on But where's the coffee gone? In the afternoon I put the tv on But where's the drama gone? In the afternoon And time is all that passes

Someone came by my bedroom today Swaying around then silently away Someone left home and my bedroom today Left by the time I slumbered away To kill all the day

Some people don't hurry Don't you worry they say One day I'll be older So much colder I say This fear won't appear