

Arms of Salvation

The Common Linnets

When your troubled heart is restless
And your morning's feeling blue
And a part of you is doubting everything you ever knew

When you're running fast from darkness
And it's just a step behind
And your feet they start to stumble on the shadows in your mind

Just hold on to the knowing
That it's gonna be alright
And the arms of salvation will be holding you tonight
(yes they will)

In the quiet of the healing
In the falling of the light
There's a simple sort of certainty when love is at your side

So when that hard rain starts to sting you
And that cold wind starts to bite
You know there's freedom in surrender
Baby you don't have to fight

Just hold on to the knowing
That it's gonna be alright
And the arms of salvation will be holding you tonight

Just hold on to the knowing
That it's gonna be alright
And the arms of salvation will be holding you tonight
(yes they will)
