The Facts of Life

The Everly Brothers

Just close your eyes and pretend that she still loves you The tears will come soon enough so tell yourself a lie Just turn your back, on all that pain and sorrow You're too young to face the facts of life

Just walk the floor make believe she's walking with you Pretend that she said hello, forget she said goodbye Put on an act, pretend you never lost her You're too young to face the facts of life

Sit by yourself and pretend that you're not lonely The truth doesn't matter now so go ahead and lie Don't want her back, pretend that you don't need her You're too young to face the facts of life

You're too young to face the facts of life You're too young to face the facts of life You're too young to face the facts of life
