(We've Got) Blue Skies

The Jackson 5

We've got blue skies, we've got blue skies

It seems like only yesterday You gave your love to me And we made a vow that through the years Our love would always be. Whenever doubts would fill my mind You'd brush my fears away Look into my eyes and hold me close And this is what you'd say...

We've got blue skies, now can't you see? There'll never ever be another love for me.

The pleasant dreams we shared Made our love stronger with each day And the fears that haunted me Seemed like a million miles away. When friends we knew would come to me With lies about your love I'd tell them happiness and sunny skies Are all we're thinking of We're so in love We're thinking of.

Blue skies... Blue skies...

I see you there, you're kissing him How can this really be? Well, I guess it's time to realize My dreams are more to me And as I walk off thinking What a fool I must have been Like an echo from my lips today I hear you telling him...

We've got blue skies, now can't you see? There'll never ever be another love for me. We've got blue skies, now can't you see? There'll never ever be another love for me. Blue skies, we've got blue skies Blue skies, we've got blue skies Blue skies, we've got blue skies, oh baby