

When You're Sixteen

The Rubettes

When you're sixteen and you're in love
You just don't know what you're thinking of
When you're sixteen and all the world is at your feet
She looks at you and your heart skips a beat

That kind of magic can weave a spell
And if she's no good well you can't tell
'Cos when you need her only you and the Lord above
Know the way you really feel

When you're sixteen and you're in love
I stay at home at night
Just waiting by the phone
Hoping she's gonna write

Surely she must know I'm all alone
When you're sixteen and you're in love
You just don't know what you're thinking of
When you're sixteen and all the world is at your feet

She looks at you and your heart skips a beat
That kind of magic can weave a spell
And if she's no good well you can't tell

'Cos when you need her only you and the Lord above
Know the way you really feel
When you're sixteen and you're in love
