Song Of The Magician

Tim Buckley

When I sing I can't bring everything on the wing Flying down from dizzy air To the ground because I care You will be love and your love will live

When I smile I beguile all the while every mile As I walk across the sky of the clockwork of your eye You will be love and your love will live

Casting spells from the well I can tell you the bells listen to my magic voice Learn the tune of children's toys You will be love and your love will live

When I die do not cry hear my sigh passing by after I have turned to win I will try to help you then You will be love and your love will live
