

In A Moment Of Weakness

Tracy Lawrence

I knew she was lonely
And I was alone
A stranger in a strange town
Too far from home

Her eyes blue as diamonds
Her hair black as coal
I could feel her desire
Burning like fire right down to my soul

In a moment of weakness
Who would have known
God was in Heaven
You were at home

I could have easily fallen
Forgotten 'til dawn
But in a moment of weakness
Your love held strong

I could say I wasn't tempted
That would be a lie
A man is only human
And she was so alive

Could have said it didn't matter
Thrown caution to the wind
Could have been in her arms
Truth is my heart wouldn't let me give in

In a moment of weakness
Who would have known
God was in Heaven
You were at home

I could have easily fallen
Forgotten 'til dawn
But in a moment of weakness
Your love held strong
In a moment of weakness
Your love held strong
