

You were a little too naked
With your fingers at your breast
A little too honest a little too strong
A little too faithful in your song

But you couldn't pull back, you couldn't hide
You couldn't pull back, no, you could not smile
You were a little too naked, but I like you like that
I like you like that

You were a little defensive
Imitation of yourself
A little too blatant, a little too wise
I'm a little bit frightened of the look in your eyes

But you couldn't pull back, you couldn't hide
You couldn't pull back, no, you could not smile
You were a little too naked, but I like you like that
I like you like that

Destroyed all my masks, that task was pretty grim
Destroyed all my masks before I finished them

Ya you couldn't pull back, you couldn't hide
You couldn't pull back, no, you could not smile
You were a little too naked, but I like you like that
I like you like that