What If We Don't Get What We Want

13 ENGINES

We were sitting at the head of a car And her lips were dry and parched And we turned to each other We were listening to "Suspicious Minds"

And we're cracking codes and combinations And we're thinking What if we don't get what we want

Well, you kick away your golden shoes Counting what you can afford to lose And I can't treat you casually We are not fond of misery

And we're cracking codes and combinations And we're thinking What if we don't get what we want

On the frozen lake of memory You were asking me about my dream And we're turning to each other And we are so primitive

And we're cracking codes and combinations And we're thinking What if we don't get what we want
