

Sunset Beyond Black Clouds

1997

Your bus rolled away,
Behind a sunrise that was smothered in black clouds,
Seems like everybody's leaving me now,
But I'm leaving soon anyhow

The room is cold without your things around,
Alone I don't know what to do with myself,
They say the hardest part is keeping in town,
I say the hardest part is watching you drown

Can you take me back there again,
I want that feeling again

I road my bike to that house,
And there's a new curtain hanging in our window,
Seems like everything's changing right now,
Will you still feel the same come tomorrow,

I've got this photograph of you and me,
Got that same cookie smile on your face,
We should have died inside that photograph,
For you were going away for a while

Can you take me back there again,
I want that feeling again,
Can I make you alright again,
Can it just be the way it was back then,
Back then

It's been quite a while,
I leave you a message to see how you've been,
Seems like every time I call you around,
Are you ever coming back again

Can you take me back there again,
I want that feeling again,
Can I make you alright again,
Can it just be the way it was back then,
Back then
