

Winds Of Change

1997

There is a lonely interstate, a state of mind, a change of pace
For every orphan on the run, and every unfamiliar face
For every dream I've ever chased across these great divided states
There is a song I sing of change, a song for hope, a song for faith

It's breaking away, it's breaking away
From every mistake that they taught us to make

These winds of change will never cease
This restlessness just gets the best of me (no hope)
There's just somewhere I gotta go
I'm always headed for the sea
From California to the big city (one more show)
Is all I ever needed from tomorrow

We don't need a plan to make sense of time
We just let it go by, by, by
And I know just who I am, when I'm out on the road
I am the song inside your ears, I am the drive, I am the show

You fight or you flee, or you choose to be free
Without any fear, or your chains to safety

These winds of change will never cease
This restlessness just gets the best of me (no hope)
There's just somewhere I gotta go
I'm always headed for the sea
From California to the big city (one more show)
Is all I ever needed from tomorrow

Bring out your tender light and your worry
Follow the path that led you to happiness (3x)

The sky looks so beautiful tonight
Over the sober streets we drive
To fall down every road just to find the stars are never perfectly aligned

These winds of change will never cease
This restlessness just gets the best of me (no hope)
There's just somewhere I gotta go
I'm always headed for the sea
From California to the big city (one more show)
Is all I ever needed from tomorrow
Is all I ever needed from tomorrow
It's all I ever needed
