Last Call

Caught in a struggle With your back against the wall You saw it coming and you all must heed the call Your time is short and you must decide The path of action either live or die The clock is ticking and it's moving fast Can we move on or are we victims of the past

What a sacrifice - who will pay the price? Racism flourished and it's stronger than before People are fighting in another local war Your time is short and you must decide The path of action either live or die The hate must stop and the war must cease To make this world a place to live we must have peace

What a sacrifice - who will pay the price? Think before you act... Before it's too late...
