

Early Warning

360

You started having these migraines Doctor gave you codeine just to ease a slight pain
Started crippling you by the age of 14
So the doctor decided to give you morphine
That was the first time you tasted what the high was like
Your brain was so fragile you weren't in your right mind
We never understand that when you used to have it
We were seeing the beginnings of a future addict
And thats a honest mistake the doctor had made
He only meant to help you in a positive way
And pointing fingers in this whole shit is not going change
That we all awoken a demon that was locked in a cage
I know this drug way of life is a lonely one
I hate that it went and attracted both of us
And opiates is so hard to overcome
Playing Russian roulette with a needle is a loaded gun

Early mornings never come
Life is good when we were young
Just like the early morning sun
We will rise up
Life is good when we were young

We didn't know you were getting bullied everyday
Tortured but wasn't strong enough to ever say
School is such a tender age it moulds you in every way
Forms and forever shape your mental state
After coping more abuse from the friends you made
All you wanted was to get some fucking better mates
So when your head would ache, you just medicate
Now you found a better way to get away from any pain
So while you crying and lying in your bed awake
You know when the doc injects your veins it'll set you straight
We didn't know because you didn't have to ever chase
Saying you got a migraines would take you to a better place
Yo, this shit is going overboard
Too deep for me to help you stay afloat at all
All we got left is hope so we hope for more
Because having false hope is better than not having hope at all

Early mornings never come
Life is good when we were young
Just like the early morning sun
We will rise up
Life is good when we were young

Theres a day I can't wipe from my memory though
Like a episode of my life that im forgetting to close
He was done from life from ready to go
Ready to hang his head in shame but at the end of a rope
His addiction has ruined everything though
Pushed away all his family and friends that he knows
We could of helped but he was too ashamed to let us all know
We thought he found us annoying so we left him alone
For some reason Mum and Dad was sensing it though
Their instinct kicked in so they to his home
He was trying to get clean so he went at it alone

So many downers he would of ended up dead on his own (yeah)
I got a call that made me burst into tears
I never heard my Dad cry and it hurt me to hear
Told him it was a blessing it could be worse than it is Bring him home to those that love him for the person he is

Early mornings never come
Life is good when we were young
Just like the early morning sun
We will rise up
Life is good when we were young
