

Higher Ground

38th Parallel

Your smile cuts through a smoky room, chasing silence from the air Your empty eyes and hollow smile complement your vacant stare There's something more to stand on, something of worth to live your life on

Chorus

Higher ground,
on higher ground
You'll build your house where love resounds Higher ground,
on higher ground
You'll see your purpose from higher ground

Your determined words dance on my heart, you're like a conscience in my ear Your laughing smile and brilliant eyes remind me why I'm here For something more to stand on, something of worth to live my life on

Chorus

The sight of you on your feet
Face streaked with the crystal glow of tears To show that love had saved you and truth amazed you is the vision I will take with me wherever I go

Chorus
